A Hearty Welcome to Eat Richmond

Beautiful Richmond has always been easy on the eye. Today it's a great place to eat too.

The town has a wide range of exciting places to enjoy a meal or a snack and excellent shops to buy locally-sourced food to cook at home. From fine dining to fish and chips and from the finest Dales-reared lamb to great veg, Richmond has it all.

Having written about Richmond's pubs, restaurants and cafes for local newspapers over many years I can confidently say there's never been a better time to enjoy great food in the town. This not-for-profit guide, brought to you by the volunteers at Richmond Information Centre, will help you discover it.

It will be of equal value to visitors looking for the cuisine to suit their taste and the price to suit their wallet and residents who should enjoy a publication which reminds them of the gastronomic gems on their doorstep.

And what a good idea it is to combine the wealth of information presented here with an easy-to-use two-for-one offer to see the great movies at Richmond's Station Cinema – a tasty deal indeed.

»» Alessandro's Sicilian

Sicilian/Italian - Café and Restaurant

For Antonio Alessandro, bringing a little bit of Sicilian flavour to Richmond has been a long-held dream - and now his authentic Italian restaurant is a runaway success.

Alessandro's Sicilian combines fresh ingredients, exciting flavours and a chef passionate about cooking the food of his homeland, Messina in Sicily.

The family-run restaurant aims to serve up delicious food "just like mamma used to make" but also makes its diners feel at home, whether they are alone or with the whole family.

An intimate bistro by night, Alessandro's also serves up breakfast and lunch. Antonio cares deeply about the customer, and he will often venture out into the restaurant to chat to his diners.

Amontola <<<

Indian Restaurant and Takeaway

What is a weekend without a great curry? If you can't resist a meal with serious flavour then head to Amontola, one of Richmond's top Indian restaurants.

The spacious upstairs dining room is traditionally and tastefully decorated, giving the wide open space a cosy feel, and attentive staff at this family-run establishment will ensure you are well looked after.

Owner Syed Washim Bari and head chef Syed Koyes Miah previously ran the award-winning Star of Bengal in Darlington, and pride themselves on using the finest ingredients in their mouth-watering food.

The selection of curries covers all the traditional favourites as well as the chef's specials.

The restaurant is a perfect venue for couples, families, and larger groups looking for a great evening out with fantastic food. Amontola offers a takeaway menu too.

Angus Morton Butchers <<<

Richmond's Premier Purveyors of Meats

Mick Kirk and his daughter Amy pride themselves on supplying their customers with meat and poultry that was born and raised exclusively within the UK.

"We made a conscious decision years ago to support British farmers," says Mick, who has owned Angus Morton Butchers since 2006.

Week to week, Mick will be buying meat from Northallerton and other markets... So lamb in the Spring and turkeys in December are all reared locally.

Mick also makes a large range of speciality sausages and burgers that the shop sells along with bacon they cure 'in house'.

Customers love bantering with Mick, Amy and his staff and it's this informal yet cordial style of doing business that give them their unique edge.

There's nothing quite like the busy, friendly atmosphere of Seasons' open aspect restaurant set within the beautifully converted former railway station.

Since Richmond's old railway buildings were opened up to the public as a gallery, cinema, food and retail centre in 2007, Seasons Restaurant and Café has been the town's go-to place to meet up with friends for coffee and cake, lunch with the family, or a pre-cinema evening meal.

The menu is designed around a modern British theme with Mediterranean and Asian influences, and owners Jane Gallogly and Ian Woodcock both have plenty of experience in the hospitality industry.

The space is welcoming to a wide range of customers - mothers and babies, students, families and visitors. Why not call in to Seasons to see what all the fuss is about?

»»» Taj Mahal

Indian Restaurant and Takeaway

The story of the Taj Mahal is fascinating... No, not the palace in Agra, India but the Indian restaurant in Richmond's Market Place.

British born Askere Ali or 'Sam' to his regulars, has dedicated his entire working-life (20+ years) to creating authentic Indian eating experiences for his guests.

As you might expect, the menu allows you to satisfy your needs for all those favourites like grilled tandoori dishes, stir-fried baltis and biryanis. However, where Sam and his kitchen staff go that extra mile are in the numerous chef's specialities they offer.

As an example there's Wild Duck Jalfrezi or Kashi Murgh Bhuna.

The Taj Mahal feels contemporary both in its design and how staff casually interact with their customers. As majestic as its namesake.
